President’s Message

Cultivate Connections, Create Community

What a great theme from the NFBPWC Executive Committee for this 2022-2024 term! So, how do we move this idea forward as an organization of members across such a large and diverse country?

Let’s break it down. Cultivate, to nurture and help grow. Connections refer to networks and relationships. Create is a vibrant verb that reminds us of our ability to bring ideas to life. Community can be defined as sharing common ideals, goals, and interests. Our Executive Committee deliberated about each of these words in an effort to bring a theme forward that would inspire NFBPWC members at all levels to contribute to this organization in a way that was meaningful to each individual.

Our organization has the propensity to inspire, empower, and connect members as we work together for gender equity. We can nurture our connections by starting with compassion, grace, and active listening. Members of this organization motivate others by finding a path in BPW that makes this community a vibrant part of their lives. A simple spark of an idea can turn into an international project, a national initiative, or an influential local program. As business and professional women, we can nurture each other’s ideas and potential while acknowledging our limitations. Our network connects us to phenomenal people and unique opportunities. We have a community of members on which we can rely for both expertise on subjects and ears to listen.

Let us take a moment as we celebrate Earth Day, and this beautiful world in which we live, to remember that all of the members of this organization do their part to make a difference. We offer a community to each other, one in which we can find solace and solutions. And let us not forget to be kind and accepting of each member’s journey in this organization as we endure these extraordinary moments of history (and herstory).

Please remember, you have an opportunity to provide constructive input and to find your own unique path in this organization. This is a chance to develop your potential, and that of NFBPWC, in a safe and welcoming space. Please continue to bring your ideas, projects, and your own light forward. Let us celebrate our successes as individuals and as an organization!

NFBPWC is truly living our theme for this biennium: Cultivate Connections, Create Community. Sending personal wishes of celebration, health, and progress around the globe!

Kind Regards,

Megan Shellman-Rickard
NBPWC President

MEMBERSHIP RETENTION

Remember the Girl Scout song, “Make new friends, but keep the old. One is silver and the other is gold?”

The Membership Committee has spent the last few months on Membership Recruitment and Retention strategies. We want to thank President Bessie Hironimus and BPW California for their document, “How to Start a New Club in 8 Weeks” which has been circulating through BPW for decades.

The Membership Committee recently updated the document, and it is available for you to use at the local level. Learn the top reasons why a member will join NFBPWC. Get tips on target audiences for new member recruitment. Access outreach templates to the Chamber of Commerce, radio announcements and social media. There is also a timeline for our BPW Heritage sisters to initiate their NFBPWC Affiliate chapter. In addition, we’ve provided telephone scripts and other ideas in “Membership Retention Tools.”

How to access? Log into the NFBPWC website, click Members Only section, Resources Library, then scroll down to Documentation. Be sure to check out the many other membership tools available there.

Looking for some fresh ideas and membership tools? Join us at our bi-weekly Membership Committee meetings on Zoom. First and Third Mondays (one hour), 5 PM Pacific, 6 PM Mountain, 7 PM Central, 8 PM Eastern.

Contact VP Membership Kathy Kelly at VPMembership@NFBPWC.org for more information.

2nd Vice President Advocacy Report

By: Daneene Monroe Rusnak, 2nd Vice President of Advocacy, NFBPWC 2020-2024

Greetings NFBPWC friends and family! This month I'm happy to "pass the mic" over to the YBPW Chair Emily VanVleck for the April magazine submission that we are working on with the Health Committee.

Emily is working on an inspiring and important initiative and I hope you all take a moment to learn more about it below (Join NFBPWC's Fight Against Period Poverty!) and of course, as always, please also be sure to read the supplemental pieces from Sue Oser and Nancy Werner.

REMINDER:

Share our new initiative with your colleagues, friends, and family members. Our stories are our power.

As always, please check the magazine for supplemental submissions from Sue Oser (LGBTQIA+) and Nancy Werner (ERA)

Thank you for all you do!

All the best,

LGBTQ+ Team Report

By: Susan E. Oser, NFBPWC Advocacy Team LGBTQIA+ Lead

Over the past year, we learned about the various communities and the flags that they represent. While there are many more to focus on, there are a lot of websites out there that can educate you on those flags that may have been missed. They include such websites as https://www.hrc.org/resources/lgbtq-pride-flags and https://rcsgd.sa.ucsb.edu/education/flags.

A major focus for this year will be various organizations around the country or even the world that help, support and advocate for the LGBTQ+ community. It’s a great way to learn about these organizations and perhaps invite them to your next meeting or for special speaking engagements. The more we learn about these organizations the more we can network and offer the support they need via an ally or more.

(an additional note of awareness to highlight)

Recently, there has been an uptick in various state capitols and cities proposing as well as passing anti-LGBTQ+ legislation, especially focusing on the transgender community. They are the most vulnerable within the spectrum with transgender youth facing the most hatred and bullying currently. It is vitally important for our organization as well as other allies to listen, learn, and speak up for this community as well as all LGBTQ+ individuals. They need our voices more than effort as we begin to prepare for next year’s presidential election season. Because of the impact these laws have and the inequality faced, going forward, this section of the LGBTQ+ advocacy column will be devoted to highlighting those bills and bring awareness to just what kind of situation the transgender community especially is facing. There will also be good news as well to share because there always needs to be a silver-lining among the clouds.

Organization of the Month – The Trevor Project

Why highlight?

This organization has been around for decades helping LGBTQ+ youth. They offer discreet counseling either online, texting or over the phone. The mission of the organization is to help curb suicides among LGBTQ+ youth. To become a volunteer, you need to apply for training so you can help a young person going through a mental health crises.

Fact from the Trevor Project website: Suicide is the second leading cause of death among all young people in the U.S.. LGBTQ+ youth are four times more likely to attempt.

ERA Team Report
By: Nancy Werner, NFBPWC Advocacy Team ERA Lead

EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT-E.R.A. IN THE NEWS

Advocacy - Equal Rights Amendment - “Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any State on account of sex” needs to be placed into our Constitution. While most states have laws prohibiting discrimination of any kind based on sex, proponents of the E.R.A. say laws can be reversed or eliminated. Having a Constitutional Amendment would cement those rights.

THE BIG EVENT HAPPENED. “How Congress Can Recognize Ratification and Enshrine Equality in Our Constitution,” was the title. On February 28, the U.S. Judiciary Committee held a hearing on the Equal Rights Amendment. Senator Durbin D-IL presided.

Sen. Durbin presented a video that took us back to 1923 when Alice Paul presented her message on equality. We received a review of the 3 states that have just recently passed their ERA. Nevada -2018, Illinois-2019 and Virginia -2022. Gender Equality is who we are. The timeline needs to be revoked.

Sen. Graham-R-SC shared information on the opposing side. In 1978 to 1982 three more years were granted to the states to push the ERA. But we were 3 states short. During this time, we had 5 states rescind their vote. Actually, what disturbed him the most is that we really do NOT have 38 states in favor of this amendment. (Sidebar-Once a state has cast their vote, they may not rescind.)

Then we heard from 3 Senators to speak their opinions. Our first was Sen. Ben Cardin D-MD. A long-time proponent for the ERA amendment, he shared too many people believe that the ERA is in the Constitution. We are the only industrialized nation in the world that does not uphold the equality of women.

Our second Senator was Cindy Hyde-Smith R-MS. She expressed that we have many laws that do provide women’s rights protection. She felt the amendment would harm women. Using the message of the late Ruth Bader Ginsburg, maybe we should start all over again.

Last was Sen. Lisa Murkowski R-AK who has been a supporter of the ERA amendment forever. She shared the resolution bill is important to women and men. She shared that to date 25% of U.S. Senators are women. In the U.S. House 128 seats belong or 29% are women. We need the equal rights under the law.
A panel of 4 women were then allowed to present individually. There was a balance of two speaking for and two speaking against the Equal Rights Amendment. All I witnessed was that the information imparted to us was just the same as the hearings back in the 70’s from both sides. I was a few years younger then, but the same statements were being shared as if time had stood still. I was dismayed but hopeful that this SJ Res 4 to remove the deadline on equality will finally come to the Senate floor for the much awaited debated.

I became full of hope when the last speaker, Sen. Alex Padilla D-CA, provided the final remarks at the hearing. The removal of the arbitrary deadline for ratification and recognizing the 38 states needs to be addressed. With passion and purpose, he shared that the equality of women needs to be placed in our U.S. Constitution as our 28th Amendment. We CANNOT let another 100 years pass!

So please go to our NFBPWC One Click System and use it. Share with your Senators what you are thinking. Make that noise. If and when the Senate Speaker, Chuck Schumer, brings the SJ Res 4 to the Senate floor, you will have shared your views.

From the Desk of the Secretary

By: Sondra Nunez, NFBPWC Secretary 2022-2024

Hello Fellow NFBPWC Sisters!

March 3-5, 2023, I had the pleasure of attending the BPW Leaders’ Summit hosted in New York City. As a first timer, I did not have any expectation of how the weekend would go. Upon reflection, I don’t know if the words I write now will do the experience justice.

Attending the Leaders’ Summit solidified for me why I chose NFBPWC. Having just joined the organization in 2021, especially in a year when the world was trying to figure out how to come out of COVID, it had been a struggle for me to pinpoint exactly what I was hoping to gain from the organization, as well as decide what I was willing to give to it. Like many of you, I have been a life-long volunteer of non-profit organizations. I understand how to contribute to the team. I know how to do work. What I wasn’t as sure of was how, after so many years as a volunteer, I could find a reignited passion for service.

When the opportunity to join the national executive committee presented itself, I was shocked. How could the possibility of joining the executive committee be sitting there just waiting for someone to say yes? I believe the world works in mysterious ways, and what we need will always be available to us, even if it seems impossible. Saying yes to national secretary is the best decision I have made in a long time.
Serving in this position has opened my eyes and mind to what is possible. It is through my service as the national secretary, I was able to gain information about the Leaders’ Summit. Ninety-seven women from around the globe coming together to discuss projects, initiatives, and opportunities to serve the world in meaningful way. Spending time with women from other countries, learning about their passions and challenges, engaging with the Young BPW, being filled with joy at what they are accomplishing, this was something I didn’t know was missing from my life. Now, it will forever be the standard I weigh all my service against.

Participating in the Leaders’ Summit afforded me the opportunity to be a global citizen. It offered me the possibility of working on projects with women never before available to me. It has changed my mind and heart for the better. The BPW Leaders’ Summit is an event I hope you and I will have the opportunity to attend together for years to come.

Sincerely,

Sondra Nunez

NFBPWC Young BPW

By: Emily VanVleck
Young BPW Chair, NFBPWC 2022-2024

March was quite the whirlwind of excitement here in NYC! I was fortunate to meet fellow BPW members from around the world in NYC during the Leader’s Summit and Clare Fulcher dinner. YBPW member Djenabou Bah (NYC) and I hosted Young BPW Night Out at Moxy Rooftop Bar and followed it up with slices of Joe’s famous pizza and a quick photo op in Times Square. It was a joy to show our YBPW friends from around the world what a night out in NYC is all about! I hope next year more YBPW members from the US can attend.

There are funds to help cover expenses for these types of events – please reach out to me if you are interested.

I was privileged to be selected as a delegate for the 67th Commission on the Status of Women for BPW International. I spent two weeks at the United Nations hearing from industry professionals and country representatives about technology and innovation and its effects on women and girls. Much of the information was upsetting – gender divides already threaten to turn tech into a patriarchal-dominated industry. If any YBPWs are involved in tech, please reach out to me so we can share with others how to include more women in this field!

YBPW CSW Parallel Event Panel

During CSW, Djenabou Bah and I represented BPW-USA on the YBPW parallel event, with me as a panelist and Djenabou as the moderator. It was a great intergenerational panel on how BPW members are creating an enabling environment for women to thrive during changing times.

YBPW Night Out – Times Square

The YBPW-led period poverty initiative is going very well, attracting members from across the country and even a few international members. Keep a look out on the national website for our next meeting times and see how you can help us End Period Poverty.

In personal news, I have been selected for the 2023-2024 cohort of the United Nations Department of Global Communications Civil Society Youth Representative Steering Committee as a representative of BPW. I am incredibly honored to be selected for this position and am excited to see how I can use this position to get more YBPW involved with the UN. I do not doubt that my work with BPW has helped lead me to this appointment. It is my dream that each of you uses your participation with BPW to help you make big career moves - I am proof that it is attainable.

See you all at our next meeting on April 11!

Share With Us!

Are you a YBPW with something exciting to share? Are you working on a cool project or get a promotion? Maybe you are studying abroad! Send me your great news so we can all celebrate your success.

What is Young BPW?

If you’re between the ages of 18-35 and are looking to collaborate on BPW initiatives, career, leadership, and women's rights -- then Young BPW is for you!

When you join NFBPW at the local, chapter, or virtual club level, you automatically become a member of Young BPW. We participate in formal and informal activities that allow us to network with members in our local communities as well as all over the world to exchange ideas and information. We even host an international conference for Young BPW every 3 years!

Email youngbpw@nfbpwc.org to get involved as a Young BPW or Student today!

Simple Acts: From Your Table to Your Community

Growing up in Florida, my mother would take me to the local farmer stands to purchase vegetables. “They taste much better because they are fresh”, she would say. And how true that still rings today. Our supermarkets advertise their “fresh produce”, but the food is often grown thousands of miles away or in another country, picked well before it has ripened, stored in warehouses, shipped over miles, and placed on your grocery store shelves. By the time this “fresh produce” hits your table, it is typically days if not a week or more old.
Farmers Markets provide fruits & vegetables that are grown seasonally and grown near to where you live, therefore keeping your food money in your community and providing you with real fresh produce. When you eat what is in season food is at its most nutritious in addition to tasting delicious. Those fresh peas & spinach in the Spring, berries & tomatoes ripe in Summer, and crisp apples in the Fall are loaded with vitamins & minerals. Feast on butternut squash soups to keep yourself nourished in the harsh winter months. You are cutting your ecological footprint by purchasing your food from local farmers (food miles count for 11% of your meal’s carbon footprint.). Couple that with using reusable bags, not plastic packaging, voila. Community Supported Agriculture (CSAs) have become a user-friendly way to buy local, seasonal food directly from a farmer. The consumer purchases a share in a farmer’s product & receives a box weekly of seasonal produce throughout the season.

Opt for Organic! Organic foods are healthier for you, providing more beneficial nutrients, lowering levels of chemicals in your food, and containing no genetically modified (GMOs) ingredients. “Organic” defines the methods & materials used by farmers to grow & process farm products including vegetables, fruits, grains, dairy products and meat. No synthetic or sewage sludge fertilizers are added to soil, no synthetic pesticides are used for pest control, no irradiation is used to preserve food or rid of pests, no genetic engineering of crops used for disease or pest control or to increase crop harvests, and no antibiotics or growth hormones are used for farm animals.

“Organic“ does not mean the same thing as “natural.” Natural on a food label means only that the product has no artificial flavors, colors or preservatives, having nothing to do with the way in which the food ingredients were grown. The labels “free-range” or “hormone-free” do not mean that these items were grown organically. Non organic foods are sprayed with extremely toxic chemicals which kill everything but the plant including beneficial insects and soil nutrients needed to grow the plant. Then, because the soil has no organisms or nutrients to provide plant growth, synthetic fertilizers are used. Millions of taxpayer dollars are handed out in subsidies for these extremely expensive, large scale, non-organic farming practices.

In purchasing organic foods, you are keeping toxins out of the air, out of the drinking water, and out of the soil. And remember, everything ends up in the ocean, leaching through soil into aquifers, into nearby rivers & lakes, into our landfills, and into our air.

Organic farming supports pollinators and we need pollinators to support life on earth. We need to maintain a level of biodiversity in plants, animals, insects, & birds.

Eat healthily.

The Environment and Sustainable Development Committee Celebrates EARTH DAY with a special webinar event before Earth Day on April 18, 2023 at 7:30 PM EST.

To register, go to: https://www.nfbpwc.org/event-5182346

Webinar presentation by Candace Fallon, Senior Conservation Biologist, Endangered Species Program Xerces Society.

Candace Fallon is a senior conservation biologist with the Xerces Society, where she works with researchers, land managers, and community scientists to study and protect at-risk invertebrates and their habitats. She has extensive experience with species inventories and monitoring, providing technical guidance to land managers, developing and managing community science projects, and conducting outreach. Much of her work has focused on conserving imperiled butterflies, beetles, mollusks, and aquatic macro-invertebrates on federal lands in the western U.S. As the Firefly Lead, she also manages Xerces' firefly conservation program and serves as co-chair of the North American section of the IUCN SSC Firefly Specialist Group.

Bring Back the Pollinators by Marikay Shellman

By: Marikay Shellman, BPW Colorado Virtual Member

98% of insects are NOT pests and “yet most of the chemicals now used kill all insects, our friends and enemies alike.” (Rachel Carson, Silent Spring)

Spring is springing and so are bugs. There is no need for pesticides as there are plenty of non-chemical tactics to battle the bugs: basil to keep flies away, dish soap to rid of ants, a spray bottle filled with water & lemon or lime juice for spiders, a cockroach trap from a wine bottle lined with maple syrup & rubbed with cooking oil, salt for a flea infestation, and Neem Oil for many types of pests.

The number & diversity of insects are declining at an alarming rate due to habitat loss, climate change & use of pesticides. By transforming part of your lawn into an insect friendly habitat, you can attract pollinators and provide habitat for native insects. Lawns are like deserts to insects. Simply leave a section of your yard untouched, allowing vegetation to grow & produce seeds & flowers. Fallen leaves & stems, sticks, and especially logs should be left for insects to use for habitation. Add native plants; they will thrive in your landscape, use less water and attract natural insect enemies to limit damage from those pest species.
Urban areas can exceed rural areas in providing diversity & abundance for pollinators including planting native species in containers on your balcony or on rooftops.

Limit your use of outdoor lighting which is one of the major causes of insect decline. Nocturnal insects are attracted to artificial lights, killing many of them. Amber or red colored lights, best to use outdoors when a large amount of light is necessary, produce wavelengths that are not as attracting to bugs thus killing fewer. Do NOT use “bug zappers” which purposely kill all insects, especially our friendly insects.

For those of us that left the leaves and native flower stalks all winter, leave the leaves which are providing shelter for insects & pollinators. New growth will pop through this bed of dead leaves. Trim stalks at uneven heights between 6-12 inches. Leave the stubble on the ground as some stem nesting bees might be living in them. Ground nesting bees are 70% of our native bees. Leave some bare ground areas to provide for these ground nesters, especially sandy areas. Remember that a leaf being eaten is providing food for leafcutter bees, 30% of our native bees.

Bumble Bee Watch has put out a call for community collection of valuable data. “As you take your daily walk along your neighborhood trail, putter in your garden weeding and planting, or sip on your coffee on an outdoor patio, keep your eyes and ears open and your camera handy. If you spot a bumble bee foraging or crawling around on the ground, take a photo, a few photos. Then submit your photos to bumblebeewatch.org, along with the date and location of your sighting.” Bumble Bees, major pollinators for blueberries, tomatoes, & wildflowers, are nearing extinction.

Celebrate 53rd Anniversary of Earth Day!

My simple action suggestion for the month of Earth Day (Earth Day is April 22nd) is to pick an Earth Day event to attend either in person or virtually. On Earth Day we celebrate this beautiful, magical, incredible planet and also we can get involved and learn something new on how to take care of our Mother Earth!

A friend made me aware of this event:

The Wonders of Our Planet Earth Day event in Collaboration with NASA and Crayola. April 20, 2023 at 2 pm Eastern Time.

Hear from astronauts, glaciologists, and visual storytellers as NASA shares how they use information they gather on Earth and in space to help us take care of our planet.

Join on Facebook HERE (https://www.facebook.com/events/230246986130743)

Or through NASA’s website HERE. (https://www.jpl.nasa.gov/edu/events/2023/4/22/celebrate-earth-day-with-education-resources-from-nasa/)

Or you can look for Earth Day events all over the world by visiting EarthDay.org. Go to the tab “Earth Day 2023” for all kinds of great information but be sure to scroll about halfway down for the map of the world. You can zoom in on any location and find events everywhere!

YOU ARE A PART OF THE SOLUTION!

Join NFBPWC’s Fight Against Period Poverty!

NFBPWC has started a new collaborative initiative between YBPW, Advocacy, and Health Committees, to tackle period poverty.

Did you know that 11 million menstruators couldn't afford period products in 2021? Or that in 2022, 22 states still imposed an additional tax on period products, ranging from 4.7% to 10%?

Come work with us to bring an end to period poverty and the stigma around a basic, life-sustaining bodily function.

April 4, 2023 from 7:00 pm to 8:00 pm Eastern Time. This event is open to the public.

Please register at: https://www.nfbpwc.org/event-5221642

Rapid Response Committee Report

By: Susan E. Oser, NFBPWC Rapid Response Committee Chair

What Rapid Response has already covered in the past?

When the Rapid Response Committee was first created in BPW, it covered quite a lot of topics that I hope we can continue to move forward with.

These are a few of them:

Condemning Violence at the January 6 insurrection in Washington D.C. in 2021

Focusing on the issues of migrant children from sample letters to Congress to sending a letter to have President Trump to send the Acting Secretary of Security. Speaking up on this issue also included sample news releases, tweets, etc.

An ERA focus with letters and postcards urging congress to pass HR Res 79 and SJ Res 6 to eliminate the deadline for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment.

A “Black Lives Matter” letter to the editor example that could be sent to local newspapers.

Some, if not all, of these issues are pretty timely and continue to still be issues that the organization needs to respond to as well as those currently coming to the forefront in the news and legislation around the country.

If you would like to be involved and help shape what defines the Rapid Response committee, please contact me at rapidresponse@nfbpwc.org and let me know what would be a good day and time for your as well as contact information so you can be added to a What’s App group for discussion as issues come forth in the news cycle.

Small Business Committee Report

Do you open your email account(s) and feel overwhelmed?

Could you spend literally all day just responding to emails – and maybe still not get through it all?

Whether you are trying to tame your business emails, or just get your personal email account(s) under control, this program is for you.

On April 12th, at 7pm EST, the Entrepreneur and Small Business Team will present the program:

“Surviving the Email Avalanche – Digging Yourself Out and Keeping the Path Clear”
This simple and straightforward method is just the shovel you need to get that avalanche of emails under control. You will come away with a manageable system, so you won’t miss out on the messages and information that is important to you.

Women on the Move Committee Report

Nermin K Ahmad and Sher Singh, NFBPWC Women on the Move Committee Co-Chairs

Members: Sher Singh, Emily VanVleck, Veronica Sexton, Cathleen Jeanty

By: Nermin K. Ahmad

The Women on the Move (WOM) Committee is coming to realize that we need to define the scope of our approach more narrowly. CSW67 was intended to help us focus, instead it broadened the subject:

- Women move for their own reasons – jobs, marriage or love, retirement, adventure.
- Women move because of external forces – work, marriage, war, financial opportunities or duress, violence, loss, more.
- Women move as migrants seeking a better life for themselves and their families; because there is no hope in their home; because of abuse; by being trafficked; from fear, anger, loss.
- Women move because they cannot stay.

How do we approach the fact that women move but that many of the actions to facilitate global movement, integration and acceptance are not really geared for women, especially women who are educated, have work experience, and can contribute at a high level within their new communities, or who are willing to take on much needed skills-based jobs in their new communities, but are unsure of their rights, the questions they need to ask, or how they can find a network to belong to.

There is also the remaining unconscious bias – women fearing the entry of new women in their community – that goes back to a less connected era.

If you are interested in helping shape this effort, please visit the Committee page: https://www.nfbpwc.org/Women-on-the-Move

Two projects fall under our committee – the Afghan Women Project, which just held an informative and practical Khahari Club meeting on how to prepare for the USCIS interview that many of the women are now being invited to. The advice shared was valuable, and very interesting to hear, as once again, most of the women were not informed of the special information they needed to add to their applications to avoid these sitting in inboxes for extended periods.
Afghan Women Project:
We wish all our sisters Ramadan Mubarak.

If you are interested in welcoming these new Americans, and answering their questions of offering the hand of friendship please contact us at Afghanwomen@nfbpwc.org, visit our home page at https://www.nfbpwc.org/Afghan-Women-Project.

Let Us Learn! Project
An initiative from Afghan women for the Rights of Afghan women in Afghanistan.

At the end of 2022, the Taliban closed the door of education, especially the university, school, even private classes for women. The believe that women do not need to go outside and study, but they should stay home and be housewives as their Main Duty. From their perspective education is not a women's right, although it is prized according to the Holy Q’uran. Our project to deploy education to them continues.

Military Affiliated Women Committee Report

By: Alice Gallop West, NFBPWC Military Affiliated Women Committee Chair

Greetings! Salutations and Happy Spring….

I am trusting that all of you are having a wonderful beginning to the Spring of 2023. As for me, I’ve been traveling, just a bit…. I spent time in Kentucky as was honored to speak at the 10th Annual Shining the Light on Military Women, hosted by NABVETS, the initial event was scheduled for March 4th, 2023. Unfortunately, there was severe weather and many in the local and surrounding areas had no power. The event was rescheduled for Saturday, March 13th. If you live near Fort Knox, KY, I encourage all Women Veterans to mark your calendar for next year’s event. The gala is free for all Women Veterans to attend, a great meal is provided, awesome vendors and a nice way to connect with other Women Veterans all while enjoying an opportunity to be applauded for the great service.
so many of us have rendered to this nation. I also had the pleasure of visiting a local transitional housing facility located 20 minutes east of Lexington, Kentucky. Anna’s House, of Lady Veterans Connect is in the serene countryside of Winchester, Kentucky. The facility was originally an elementary school that was purchased and converted into a comfortable residential facility solely for homeless women veterans, who are in need of safe housing. Residents are provided life counseling, skills-based assistance, access to Veterans Health Care, Veterans Benefits counseling and so much more. I was truly impressed with all the great support programming that the facility provides their residents. I was equally excited to tour the facility and spend time with the programs Founder and Executive Director, Ms. Phyllis Abbot. Ms Abbott had a wonderful vision to help support Women Veterans in a meaningful way. Her vision came to fruition with this program. Lady Veterans Connect is a 501(C) 3 designated charity that currently operates solely on donations. If you would like to learn more about Lady Veterans Connect, how you can assist their mission or perhaps would like to send a tax-deductible donation, you can contact them via the website listed below. Home - Lady Veterans Connect (lv-connect.org)

Last, but certainly not least.....I wanted to take this opportunity to thank all of those that attended our last committee webinar held in February 2023. Our webinar was power packed with information and resources from the Veterans Administration, Women’s Veterans Coordinator – Hampton, Virginia, Mrs. Catherine McDonald. If you missed this opportunity and would like to review the video, send me an email to: womenveteran@nfbpwc.org and I’ll send it out to you.

Our next meeting will be held, Thursday, April 27, 2023, beginning at 8:00 pm. We will have a great informational webinar session on Veterans Benefits. If you would like to attend, stay tuned for the link to sign-up. Also, if you have a specific question about VA Benefits, send me an email with your question. Our great panel will be able to answer the questions or provide you with guidance to your answer. Locate my email address below...

Have a happy spring – flowers will be in bloom soon and the weather will begin to warm…. Take some time to enjoy the spring weather............. and I look forward to seeing you on Thursday, April 27th 2023 at 8:00 pm (EST).

Reminder: Military Affiliated Women (MAW) Committee is open to all members of NFBPWC. We are a committee of individuals that are connected to military women; are you a spouse of a military women, a parent, a sibling, a cousin or just a friend...... we have a space for you! Our Committee will meet every even month this year, contact the Committee Chair to find out how you can support this emerging NFBPWC program. Send your email to: MilitaryWomen@NFBPWC.org

April Highlights in US Women’s History

April 2, 1931 – 17-year-old Jackie Mitchell, the second woman to play baseball in the all-male minor leagues, pitches an exhibition game against the N.Y. Yankees and strikes out both Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. The next day, the Baseball Commissioner voided her contract, claiming baseball was too strenuous for women. The ban was not overturned until 1992.

April 5, 1911 – 100,000 to 500,000 people march in New York City to attend the funeral of seven unidentified victims of the Triangle Shirtwaist Company fire in late March.

April 7, 1805 – Sacagawea begins helping the Lewis and Clark Expedition as an interpreter.

April 7, 1987 – Opening of the National Museum of Women in the Arts in Washington, D.C., the first museum devoted to women artists.

April 9, 1939 – Marian Anderson sings an Easter Sunday concert for more than 75,000 at Lincoln Memorial.

April 13, 1933 – Ruth Bryan Owen is the first woman to represent the U.S. as a foreign minister when she is appointed as envoy to Denmark.

April 16, 1912 – Harriet Quimby becomes the first woman to fly an airplane across the English Channel.

April 19, 1977 – Fifteen women in the House of Representatives form the Congressional Caucus for Women’s Issues.

April 22 – Earth Day, honor Rachel Carson today, a woman who changed America and greatly influenced the environmental movement with her revolutionary book, Silent Spring.

April 26, 1777 – American Revolution heroine Sybil Ludington, 16 years old, rides 40 miles on horseback in the middle of the night to warn the American militia that the British were invading.
• April 28, 1993 – First “Take Our Daughters to Work” Day, sponsored by the Ms. Foundation, in 2003 it became “Take Our Daughters and Sons to Work” Day

UN Women Sponsors UN Symphony Orchestra Concert on International Women’s Day during CSW67

Susan O’Malley, UN Representative IFBPW, NGO CSW/NY, Chair ex officio, Cellist, UN Symphony Orchestra

To celebrate International Women’s Day on 8 March 2023, UN Women sponsored a concert entitled “Global Women for Peace” featuring the UN Symphony Orchestra at the Tribeca Music Center. The orchestra, made up of 75 musicians, played 10 pieces by 10 women from 10 different countries. Anoa Green from the Baltimore School of the Arts was the extraordinary conductor. The concert was an historic Side Event of the two-week 67th UN Commission on the Status of Women.

The concert began with a fiery talk by Executive Director of UN Women, Sima Sami Bahous, elaborating how women’s human rights, including reproductive rights, are being eroded. Maestro Predrag Vasic, the resident conductor of the UN Symphony Orchestra, explained that the percentage of compositions by women played by orchestras in the US is less than 5.1 percent and that this concert aims to increase that number and may become an annual event.

The program included:

- Louise Farrenc, Premiere Overture, France
- Souad Bushnaq, Ghaden (Tomorrow), Syria
- Bora Yoon, The Wind of Two Koreas, South Korea
- Masha Brodskaya, To Ukraine, Ukraine
- Lucia Caruso, Light and Wind Piano Concerto, Argentina
- Jeanne Zaidel-Rudolf, At the End of the Rainbow, South Africa
- Sussan Deyhim, Meditation, Iran
- Hainui Zhang, A Journey to the West, China
- Angelica Negron, What Keeps Me Awake, Puerto Rico
- Florence Price, The Oak, US

The music was challenging but playable. It had unfamiliar rhythmic passages, surprising musical directions such as “molto crunch” (draw your bow below the bridge and make a terrible scratching sound), humor? (“North Korean patriotism vs South Korean modernity - Declaratively disjunct”), yearning “To Ukraine”, and surprising instrumentation (orchestra with solo guitar and cello “Meditation”). The audience was wildly appreciative.
Member States Pass the CSW67 Agreed Conclusions at 3:14 AM on Saturday, 11 March 2023

Susan O’Malley, UN Representative, IFBPW and Widows for Peace Through Democracy

Each year the Commission on the Status of Women attempts to pass by consensus the Agreed Conclusions (Outcome Document) based on the Priority Theme of that year. The Priority theme for 2023 was “Innovation and technological change, and education in the digital age for achieving gender equality and the empowerment of all women and girls.” The Zero Draft is written by UN Women based on Expert Group Papers on the Priority Theme and the UN Secretary General’s Report in December and the Commission on the Status of Women. Next Member States add their concerns to the next Document called Rev.1. Rev. 2 combines and reorganizes language. After much discussion and some disruption, the Agreed Conclusions is reached. We are told that the Chief Negotiator often tells countries who disagree to meet together for 10 minutes and come up with acceptable language. All Member States must agree to the document although they may list their reservations. In recent years only NGOCSW56 on Rural Women did not reach Agreed Conclusions.

The CSW Agreed Conclusions is not legally binding. Neither is the Beijing Platform for Action. Only CEDAW (Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women) is legally binding. Yet why are the CSW negotiations so contentious? It is important that the CSW Agreed Conclusions do not go backward by reducing the rights of women and girls and that some progress is made. Several Member States and the Holy See (observer status) are not supportive of the rights of women and girls, particularly reproductive rights. Some Member States believe that development is more important than human rights. And some Member States are not supportive of NGOs. Some have what we call GONOgs = government-controlled NGOs.

That said the CSW67 Agreed Conclusions was a compromise document described by Sima Bahous, Executive Director, Executive Director of UN Women, as a “game-changing Agreed Conclusions for a more equal and connected world for women and girls.” This is optimistic, but I was pleased with para. 20 noting “the potential of digital technologies to strengthen birth registration systems for the realization of human rights, including the right to education, as well as access to social protection systems, and for participation and decision-making in public life” and para. 83, the first time that an Agreed Conclusions has had a paragraph on widows thanks to the Global Fund for Widows and the African Union:

“The Commission recognizes the need to ensure the economic independence and full participation and empowerment of widows, including in the context of innovation and technological change and education in the digital age, inter alia by enabling their access to digital technologies and promoting the control, ownership and management of their own businesses and entrepreneurship including through the incorporation of financial instruments such as bonds and credit lines, mobilization of sufficient financial resources and capacity building.”

Next month a discussion of how to try to get involved with the process of the Agreed Conclusions.

Cybersecurity Promotes Gender Equality

Advocacy, Courage, and Skill Development

By Teressa Gehrke on Mar 27, 2023
‘Twas the night before Christmas when all through the house, not an email was checked, nor a scroll with a mouse. When, what to my wondering eyes should appear, but a notification to speak at CSW, my dear! Then quicker than Santa appearing at night, I was off to the Big Apple for my very own adventure.

I spent 12 days in New York learning from accomplished, brilliant women who seek to educate, inform, and empower women to have their hearts and minds changed, but also learning about how far we are from true gender equality. It is my intention to bring awareness to women and girls how something like choices in your life can affect the outcome of and improve your financial status. This is why my presentation on how cybersecurity promotes gender equality is important. It gives girls and women insight into this industry, including a work-life balance, transformative employment that makes the world a better place, and a lucrative salary. I’ve already had a few women reach out to me about how they can get started in the field. That’s exactly what I set out to do.

I’m grateful to BPW Canada in welcoming me to their delegation, providing details about the event, and invitations. I was able to connect with other like-minded women all over the world. I’ve never been part of a networking organization that has been this supportive of me. Thank you.

BPW International Help for Turkey - Project Container Village

Project Container Village

The container village will provide living space for about 800 people on 11,397m².

On this area, 100 living containers, two social facilities, laundry and infirmary will be built.

Volunteer psychologists, doctors and educators from all over Turkey will be on site on a rotating basis. Sports and social activities will be organised for children and young people.
A catastrophic disaster strikes the human beings, the earthquake in Turkey and Syria. The images of destruction are horrific and do not let one rest. Our thoughts are with the people in the disaster area who survived the earthquake, but now have to live on in great hardship and severely traumatized.

BPW International has 6 clubs in Turkey and 1 club in Syria. BPW Club Adana is in the region of the earthquake. We are in contact with the Club representatives and working with them on the Project Container Village. Read more here and help us to realize these container houses for those directly affected in rapid emergency relief.

Please donate to our Donations Account "BPW International Donation for Earthquake" which is open since 10 February 2023. Thank you all for your generosity.

CFBPW Winter Board and Public Policy Meeting was February 24th and 25th in Sacramento and available via Zoom. Co-Chairs for Public Policy Rosemary Enzer and Linda J. Lucas provided a wonderful Conference. We heard from Jane Taff, who ran a very successful campaign for Citrus Heights City Council, as well as from Carol Moon Goldberg, President of the California League of Women Voters, and Candelaria Vargas, Director of Public Affairs of Planned Parenthood of Mar Monte on “Challenges to our Democracy: How Women Can Fight Back.” CFBPW L3 Chair Barbara J Davis presented the L3 module on “Advocacy” and also updated us on various bills that had passed in California, which affect working people. The Bill Screening Committee demonstrated how they review bills. NFBPWC 2nd Vice President for Advocacy Daneene Rusnak updated the attendees on NFBPWC advocacy efforts. We also honored a “Legislator of the Year” – State Senator Toni Atkins. Senator Atkins sponsored the bill which became Proposition 1 enshrining abortion rights in the California Constitution.

Northern and Bay Capital District are working on the bylaws to combine the two Districts. They will have a joint meeting on April 22nd in Sacramento to complete the work on the bylaws and the name for the new District.
Berkeley BPW was 100 years old in 2022. They have a monthly newsletter to keep the members updated. Monique Lee is the editor. The newsletter is available on their page on the State BPW website (bpwcal.org).

Downtown Sacramento continues to meet monthly on the second Tuesday of the month via Zoom. February 14th Co-Chair for CFBPW Public Policy Rosemary Enzer and Bill Screening Committee member Elaine Sierra gave a presentation on the upcoming Public Policy Conference. Their March meeting was the election of officers and a presentation from their member Patricia Parra, Project Director with the Health Education Council, on local programs that build paid workforce development in underserved neighborhoods in Sacramento County. The Club will also be celebrating their 104th anniversary.

Sierra Mar District BPW’s Winter Conference was Saturday, January 28th at St. Paul’s Lutheran Church in Monterey Park. One of our members knew a January 21st shooting victim in Monterey Park so the meeting started with silence in remembrance of the eleven people who were killed and the nine who were wounded. NFBPWC President Megan had sent a condolence letter which was appreciated. Immediate Past NFBPWC President Sandy Thompson presented the L3 module “BPW 100 Years in One Hour,” which was well received. The afternoon speaker was State Senator Susan Rubio, who reviewed legislation she has sponsored regarding domestic violence.

Sierra Mar District’s Annual Conference will be April 15th starting at 9:00 A.M. at St. Paul’s Lutheran Church in Monterey Park, CA. East Los Angeles-Montebello BPW is planning the meeting. The State Representative is Rosemary Enzer, President of the California BPW Education Fund and a past President of CFBPW. The morning speaker is Josué Arias, who is in charge of the “Kindness Program” at the Boys and Girls Club of West San Gabriel and Eastside. The luncheon speaker will be Monique Rodriguez, who is East Los Angeles-Montebello BPW’s Young Careerist for 2023. The afternoon speaker is Ivette Aragon, Field Deputy for Congressmember Jimmy Gomez, who will speak on legislation affecting women and families. The meeting will also see the election of District officers, approval of the budget, and setting the meeting dates for 2023-24.

East Los Angeles-Montebello BPW continues to meet on the 4th Tuesday of the month at 4:30/5:00 P.M. at Marie Callender’s Restaurant in Monterey Park or via Zoom. The speaker for the March 28th Women’s History Month program on Zoom was Martha Wheelock from “Wild Women Films.” The April 25th meeting’s speaker will be Bernice LaScala, who works at Lanterman Regional Center and formerly MERCI’s Associate Director of Programs, speaking on Autism.
El Monte BPW continues to meet on the first Monday of the month at Norm’s Restaurant in El Monte.

Valley Sunset District BPW’s Winter Conference was February 4th at the Palm Garden Hotel in Thousand Oaks. Attendees learned about the upcoming Public Policy Conference in Sacramento, the “Heart of a Woman” conference in Houston and the BPW Regional Conference in St. Kitts. The late morning speaker was Andrea Gallagher from Senior Concerns, who updated attendees on surveys about aging. She talked about myths of aging, beauty and mental health.

Valley Sunset District BPW’s Annual Conference will be April 29th at the Palm Garden Hotel in Thousand Oaks starting at 9:00 A.M. for registration with the meeting starting at 9:30 A.M. Burbank BPW is in charge of the program. The morning speaker will be LaKenya Jordan, who is the Deputy Secretary of State for California. She will be speaking on voting rights.

Burbank BPW meets on the 2nd Wednesday of the month. Their February 8th meeting featured Alia Ismael, Burbank member and member of the NFBPWC JDEI Committee, giving her presentation on “Women and Resilience: A Conflict Resolution, Financial Security and Life Necessity.” The March 8th meeting was on planning for the Valley Sunset District Conference. They are not planning to meet in April due to the Valley Sunset District Conference.

Hollywood BPW will celebrate their 102nd anniversary with the recognition of their “Susan B. Anthony Award” winner Lynn Brandstater, Past CFBPW President. This celebration has been postponed until later in the year.
Executive Committee 2022-2023:

The BPW Colorado Board of Directors will meet on Monday, April 3, 6:30 p.m. The main purpose of the meeting is to plan for our Annual Convention in June. We will determine a date and a place (for the entire event or for the social part of it), as well as to consider whether any changes to the Bylaws are necessary. Also at the meeting, Evie Hudak, President, will present a summary of the evaluations of Midyear Convention.

One of the key activities at Annual Convention in June is the election of officers. All 5 officer positions are up for election this year. Anyone interested in serving or having a suggestion should contact Cynthia Wieme, chair of the Nominations Committee. We will also be looking for volunteers to serve as committee chairs.

Deb Fischer reported to the BPW Colorado Executive Committee that in her role as chair of the Information Technology Committee, she reached out to Joyce Feustel, who presented a workshop at Midyear Convention on the use of social media. Joyce had some helpful suggestions for BPW.

BPW Colorado was happy to be able to partner with CWEF (Colorado Women’s Education Foundation), our sister organization, for a booth at the annual Women Powering Change expo on March 2. We very much appreciate the help from Deb Fischer, CWEF president and past BPW/CO president, to set up the booth, and from Angie Layton, BPW/CO 2nd Vice President, for “working the room” at the event! (Women Powering Change was initiative by activist/philanthropist Cynda Collins Arsenault to recognize the skills and passion of women who are leading change for/by/about women in Colorado, to help them become better connected with their own community, and be more aware of the work being done to address the issues that all women face socially, politically, culturally, etc. The first event was held in 2013, and it has grown substantially, with hundreds of attendees every year. BPW/CO is an active participant.)

On March 15th 2023, the South Florida Club hosted an "Un Happy Hour" event for Equal Pay Day raising the awareness of the Pay Gap that still exists for women.

The event was a great success with speakers, silent auction, and networking. The owner of the 26 degrees Brewery was given a Certificate of Appreciation for his support of women and providing the venue. The funds raised by the club at the event will be donated to Women In Distress.

The club continues to strive for an increase in membership and a new member was gained by the event.

March has fled, leaving our New Yorkers exhausted. We had an amazing CSW 67 – with BPW members from different parts of the world presenting, and our Young BPW shining in various capacities at different venues across the UN and New York. I gather the Leaders’ Summit was as always a highlight event. President Emerita Burack hosted dinner in Harlem, as before COVID. Instead of a welcome to NY, the NYC Chapter hosted a post event get together, which we used to identify what was done well, what could be done better, and how to prepare individuals for CSW 68. The discussion was strong, and we are receiving comments that suggest a series of conversations will make our contributions to CSW and UN Women both stronger and more meaningful.

Personal highlights – being able to bring Dr. Bosshart to the Harvard Club of New York (with her spouse and Emily VanVleck) to hear a conversation with Madam the President of Georgia. I was proud to have a blog I wrote on migration and xenophobia accepted for publication by UNNM, and to be invited to develop a second blog on the specific challenges faced by migrant women – women on the move. An undercurrent I followed during the mad March weeks focused on recovery from the disaster in Turkey – and an event at the Turkish Mission to the UN called on women around the world to be there for Turkish women and those impacted by the terrible earthquakes.

For Women’s month, we highlighted 31 amazing women, from around the world and across history – starting in Vietnam in around 50 BC. Our daily focus on women was plastered across our social media.

We are in the process of planning our second Financial Freedom: Managing your Money event, and are also planning a major talk in April on Human Trafficking – where we will have a panel discussion with a representative on the subject from the Mayor’s Office in NYC, the lead author of the US Human Trafficking Institute’s report on the state of trafficking in the US, and BPW Canada member, Kelly Tallon Franklin, CEO of Canadian Courage for Freedom. Our aim is to understand the problems and issues, identify the key players and needs, and encourage action-oriented links among organizations focused on the topic. For our April focus on Sexual Awareness Day and Violence Against Women, we are in contact with Amy Ziering, Director of the movie The Hunting Ground, and will be focused on screening the film as a contribution to Denim Day.

The sixty-seventh session of the Commission on the Status of Women took place from 6 to 17 March 2023 with the priority theme of, "Innovation and technological change, and education in the digital age for achieving gender equality and the empowerment of all women and girls". Most of the panelists from different countries shared the same message that women have less access to technology than men and that should change because it is holding them back. For instance, in Africa among the causes of the technology gap is due to lack of access to digital devices, not being able to learn the hard skills required at early age, lack of women representation in tech for other women and girls to look up to. Some of the policy and recommendations were to sustain the implementation of digital learning, promote education in the stem field for women, introduce girls to technology at early age which will provide more opportunity in their upcoming age, retain girls in school and give the tools needed to advance, support local led organizations working in that area and find out what are their needs and challenges to address them. One other highlight is that while technology has grown hugely, the government has failed to regulate it. Hence, the importance of education for women so that they can protect themselves from cyber security and stalking.

Our March 16, 2023, meeting focused on our members sharing, our own brand of happy hour, and of course the wearing of the green.

What are our NC members doing?

Elaine was present even though she was in charge of her husband who was recovering from a trip to the dentist. Some of you might know Elaine is a retired RN and lover of nature volunteering at our local aquarium. We hope she and Steve enjoy their upcoming adventures!

We missed our member Dr. Jo Naylor at our March meeting, unfortunately her work schedule got in the way of her attending the meeting! Mother’s Day is coming, let’s not forget that Jo is offering a discount to all BPW members. Please use this link: https://www.etsy.com/shop/Joniquas?coupon=BPW22

Jo has a $2 off coupon for every order over $10. The code is BPW22 December 15, 2022, through April 4, 2023.

Alice had a wonderful Military Affiliated Women’s meet and greet on February 22. Contact Alice at militarywomen@nfbpwc.org for more information. We missed Alice at our March meeting, too. She ditched us for the ability to join some out-of-town guests for dinner. We hope to see Jo, Gail, and Alice in April. We miss you!

Mary Lou joined us for some cheer. We wish she and her husband Stan speedy recoveries! It’s time to get back to cruising!
Barbara went to the dogs, literally! She was able to show her brother’s dog, Brittany Spaniel “Charlie,” in Raleigh. Charlie and Barbara did very well in the ring!

NFBWPC/NC member Lea-Ann W. Berst & NFBPWC/CA member Ashley Maria continue to use their impact film, Pioneers in Skirts, to push for gender parity in our culture. With groups feeling more comfortable to screen the film in-person, they are ramping up for a BIG 2023 of screenings and in-person events. Below is a list of a few upcoming events you might be interested in. Take a look and see if you can attend! www.PioneersinSkirts.com

In the meantime, please consider supporting their impact efforts by visiting their GoFundMe Impact Fund: https://www.gofundme.com/f/pioneers-in-skirts-impact-fund. This impact fund is used to raise the money they need to create Screeners with multiple translations, audience engagement tools, educational materials, travel to key events, and more!

Varnell is working hard on some crafts she is selling for the Edgecombe County Relay for Life. The event is on June 10 at the local high school. If you would like to contribute to Vernell’s team, please contact her at varnellk@hotmail.com

Marsha is somewhere either visiting friends and family, teaching CPR www.cadycprsolutions.com or going through the storage room she calls a home in NC. Does anyone have any use for old textbooks? She is willing to ship them instead of depositing them in the landfill.

North Carolina is getting CRAFTY for Earth Day 2023

In recognition of Earth Day (April 22, 2023) North Carolina’s monthly meeting will be a paper crafting demonstration / instruction in fun and beautiful ways to keep magazines and books out of the landfills. Multiple items will be demonstrated, and an instructional handout will be shared with attendees for future use.
Did you know?

Join NFBPWC-NC for their next meeting, Thursday, April 20th at 8pm EST.
Registration is now open on the website.

THE MYSTERY OF THE PENNSYLVANIA BPW PAST STATE PRESIDENT’S PIN

Past PA Affiliate Chapter President Nancy Werner recently received an email from a woman in Altoona, PA, named Grace Kennedy. Grace advised Nancy that she found a Pennsylvania Past State President’s (PSP) pin lodged under the lid of a small white jewelry box which she purchased at a thrift shop in Altoona. She did not know anyone in BPW but googled the initials NFBPWC on the pin. As a result of her research Grace found Nancy’s email address listed as part of the PA Affiliate Chapter’s Information on the NFBPWC website. Grace provided an email address and telephone number.

BPW/PA, the Pennsylvania heritage organization still has a District structure and Altoona. BPW is a member of District 5. My BPW Local is also a member of District 5. Nancy forwarded Grace’s Information to us in District 5 which included a picture of the pin. District 5 has had 5 PA PSPs in its history. Two of them have been deceased for many years. Three of us have served more recently. Patricia Gildea (no longer a BPW member) served as State PSP in 1968. I served as PA PSP in 1997-98, and Emily Holgash served as PA PSP in 2015-16. I contacted Patricia Gildea to see if she still had her PA PSP pin. She checked to find that she no longer had her pin. She indicated that she has been donating items to the local thrift shop where Grace purchased the jewelry box. Patricia said it was not her intention to donate the pin and was not aware it was lodged under the lid of the jewelry box. Although Patricia is no longer a member of BPW, she has fond memories of BPW and would be so happy to have her pin returned.

In speaking with Grace Kennedy she told me she was a freshman biology student at Villanova University and was home on Spring break. She said she would be happy to send the pin to me so I could return it to its rightful owner. What was so impressive about this young woman was that she knew nothing about BPW or our members, but took the time to try to find the owner of the pin and was able to do so through our NFBPWC Website. I just received the pin in the mail and will return it to Patricia Gildea. I spoke to Grace about Membership and about scholarships offered through our PA BPW Foundation. She said she may consider Membership in BPW in the future, but was focusing on her studies at this time. I will keep her on my follow up list. It shows that BPW is still alive and our NFBPWC Website presence brought the lost PSP pin back to us. What a MOMENT IN TIME!

In other PA Affiliate Chapter news one of our members Katie Fink was named one of the Most Newsworthy People of Bedford County, PA. Ms. Fink is employed as the Executive Director of the United Way in Bedford County. She has been employed in her field for six years. Ms. Fink has a BA in Communications from California University of PA. Ms. Fink is the recipient of the following awards: Paul Harris Award Bedford Sunrise Rotary, Bedford Gazette’s Most Newsworthy 2021, and Top Influential People of 2018. She volunteers and serves on numerous committees in the Bedford, PA area to include President of the local Bedford BPW

PA affiliate Chapter members Nancy Werner and Cathy Collins attend NFBPWC Membership Meetings via Zoom with Kathy Kelly, Vice President (Membership) and the Membership Committee twice per month.

Lilly Gioia, PA Affiliate Chapter Legislation/Advocacy Chair continues to provide the members with the latest legislation issues affecting women and Pennsylvania happenings affecting women. Lilly attends monthly NFBPWC Advocacy Meetings as part of the NFBPWC Advocacy Team. We are grateful for all her research and in-depth analysis. Her Advocacy Report follows this report.

The PA Affiliate Chapter is sponsoring a vendor table at the BPW/PA State Convention in June 2023. Pamphlets, book markers, Membership Applications, and other information will be available with members on hand to promote membership recruitment. Seven of our members attended the BPW/PA Board Meeting on March 4, 2023, and promoted membership for the PA Affiliate Chapter. We continue to promote our Affiliate Chapter through increased visibility and have placed an ad in the 2023 National Women’s History Alliance publication - soon to be available.

We continue to provide information on our Facebook page thanks to members Ginny Bailey and Emily Holgash, who continue to research and place information on this page.
Members have been encouraged to continue to review the NFBPWC Website and monthly newsletter and to take advantage of the great programs that are offered. For example, two members, Cathy Collins and Lilly Gioia, attended the CSW67 Parallel Event from Second Grade to Second Act: Cybersecurity Promotes Gender Security. What an interesting and informative program.

PA Affiliate Chapter member Amanda Owen, Executive Director, Justice Bell.org has received approval for us to work together with her organization to provide a Zoom program in August around Women’s Equality Day. Stay tuned. More to come!

The next meeting of the PA Affiliate Chapter is scheduled for April 16, 2023, at 7:00 pm.

FIRST EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT SENATE HEARING in 40 YEARS!

On February 28, 2023, despite the fact that five states (Idaho, Kentucky, Nebraska, South Dakota and Tennessee) already voted to take back their earlier ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, the Senate Judiciary Committee held its first hearing on the E.R.A. since 1984. Legal challenges to the ratification over both the original deadline and whether the states’ rescinding previous ratifications have merit, remain. Also, on 2/28/23 the District of Columbia Circuit Court ruled that the E.R.A backers failed to prove indisputably that the Congressional deadline set for the states to ratify it isn’t legally valid or binding. Linda Caberly, Chair of the E.R.A Coalition’s Legal Task Force, said the D.C. Circuit decision does not resolve whether the time limit is effective or enforceable. What it does do is send the issue back to Congress, Businessweek Law reported. The decision “leaves Congress with the ability to act to remove the time limit and recognize the Amendment as valid.” That is what the hearing in the Senate Judiciary Committee was about, Caberly said.

The goal of the Senate hearing was to determine whether the deadline could be separated from the Amendment thus allowing it to be added to the U.S. Constitution. More than 50 years after Congress set the E.R.A.’s ratification in motion, a reinvigorated women’s movement is fighting for equality propelled by the 2017 “MeToo” scandals and the 2022 Supreme Court decision eliminating the constitutional right to abortion. The U.S. House voted to remove the E.R.A.’s expired ratification deadline in 2020 and 2021, but the Justice Department under former president Trump claimed this wasn’t possible because the deadline had expired. Senator Lisa Murkowski (R/AK), who introduced the resolution to remove the expired deadline, said she does not feel there’s been enough Senate attention on the amendment. “Quite frankly, most Americans think this is already in our Constitution, but Congress needs to complete the job,” said Senator Ben Cardin (D/MD), co-sponsor of the resolution.

Mississippi Republican Senator Cindy Hyde-Smith testified to her opposition, insisting women’s rights have advanced “by leaps and bounds” since the E.R.A. was introduced. Women are already protected through the 14th Amendment and other legislation. U.S.A. Today quoted Hyde-Smith saying adoption of the E.R.A. would undo “many of these great achievements.” To the contrary, Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia stated years ago that women’s rights are not protected under the 14th Amendment. Conservatives insist that the E.R.A. has “just one purpose left,” as the Heritage Foundation put it: “Abortion.”

Additionally, Catholic Bishops wrote Senators to express “alarm” at the E.R.A., warning it would have “far-reaching consequences” with “negative impacts to the common good and to religious freedom.” The Bishops claim that the E.R.A. would require federal funding for abortions and would prohibit “discrimination based on ‘sexual orientation,’ ‘gender identity’” and other categories. “We strongly urge you to oppose it and any resolution attempting to declare it ratified.”

Heather Cox Richardson wrote on 3/2/23 that the E.R.A. fight highlights an attempt to stop government protection of individuals. This is “really about imposing the will of a minority,” she stressed. According to Ms.
Magazine, 83% of Americans support the E.R.A. Among 18-24 year olds, it is favored by 90%. A Senate vote to remove the deadline is expected in March or April.

SMITHSONIAN AMERICAN WOMEN’S HISTORY MUSEUM FINALLY HAS A DIRECTOR:

The institution took a major step on 3/13/23 naming Nancy Yao as its founding director. Yao is the president of the Museum of Chinese in America. More than two years after Congress approved its creation, the Women’s History Museum has yet to decide on an architect, a location or its collection, the New York Times reported. But it already has more than $55 million in pledged donations from philanthropists, including Melinda French Gates, fashion designer Tory Burch and Wal-Mart billionaire Alice Walton. Yao will lead the museum as it prepares to finalize a location on the National Mall. “Someone might describe this as a history of 167.5 million people in this country—and their ancestors,” Yao said. Secretary of the Smithsonian, Lonnie G. Bunch III, said in a statement that “Nancy’s previous experience, skill and leadership will be crucial in bringing this project to life and “enabling it to creatively tell a more robust and complete story about who we are as a nation.” Before entering the museum world, Yao worked for the Council on Foreign Relations and Goldman Sachs.

WOMEN-OWNED SMALL BUSINESSES NEED BETTER SUPPORT:

A new survey conducted by Goldman Sachs’ 10,000 Small Business Voices program collected data from nearly 900 women small-business owners across 47 states and Puerto Rico. As many as 89% said they feel they are not on a level playing field with men who own businesses. 72% said that if they had to grade the federal government on the effectiveness of its programs, services and resources, they would give it a “C” or below. Getting certified as a women-owned small business through the Small Business Administration (SBA) is the central problem. Certification is a path to compete for more federal contracts, particularly in industries where women are underrepresented, The 19th reported. The cumbersome and time-consuming process causes many women to conclude it’s not worth the struggle. The problem is not getting better. From fiscal year 2020 to 2021 the overall number of small businesses that were primary contractors with the federal government shrank by 6%. Women-owned small businesses accounted for a quarter of that decline, said Dane Strangler, director of strategic initiatives at the Bipartisan Policy Center, a nonpartisan think tank. “They represent a small minority of the total number, but we know for sure that they are bearing an outsized impact of this continued trend,” Strangler said. The system has been plagued with challenges since its inception. Gathering all the necessary paperwork to even apply could take hours and days. Then small businesses have to recertify every three years to remain eligible for federal dollars. A National Bureau of Economic Research report found in April 2020 alone, the number of working women business owners dropped by 25%, an unprecedented figure.

SBA Administrator Isabella Guzman said in a statement the agency is committed to making SBA a more customer-friendly organization. The number of certified women-owned firms has increased from 1,000 to more than 8,000 since 2021. The SBA has expanded the industries eligible for set-aside awards from 444 to more than 700, but the agency has limited enforcement ability. A central solution might be in reauthorizing SBA. Congress has the authority to make changes to government agencies through a process known as reauthorization. Most agencies go through that modernization process every couple of years. The SBA is an outlier. The agency as a whole has not been reauthorized since 2000. This would allow it to update its programs, goals and technology to better serve business owners. Advocates say that the pandemic has provided an opportunity to better structure the agency to reach women-owned businesses and address pressure points, particularly since the long-standing problems accessing capital hinder economic recovery. A reauthorization process could be a mechanism to restructure the SBA. The issue has bipartisan support and several lawmakers in both chambers of Congress have expressed interest.

THE BATTLE OVER ABORTION MEDICATIONS:

SOUTH CAROLINA: A 3/14/23 LawandCrime.com report announced that Republican lawmakers sponsored H.3549 as the South Carolina Prenatal Equal Protection Act of 2023 in mid-February. It proposes changes to the state’s homicide statute. The bill redefines “person” under state criminal law to include a fertilized egg. A pregnant person who undergoes an abortion could be subject to all applicable punishments including the death penalty. The bill treats fertilized embryos on par with individuals born alive under the law. There is no exception made for a pregnancy resulting from rape or incest. Nancy Mace, a South Carolina Republican
Congresswoman, spoke on the U.S. House floor about H.3549 calling it “deeply disturbing to [her] as a woman, as a female legislator, as a mom and as a victim of rape.” The issue of whether a fetus can be considered a “person” for legal purposes is one that the Supreme Court has declined to answer to date. On 3/20/23 the New Republic reported that after a death penalty backlash, the bill lost co-sponsors. Considering abortion as homicide or punishable by a minimum 30 year prison sentence became “too hot for even some of its supporters to handle,” according to the New Republic. Nine of the original 24 co-sponsors yanked their support following a massive outcry on social media according to a 3/19/23 Columbia Post & Courier report. The bill is going nowhere the paper said.

WYOMING: St. Patrick’s Day in Wyoming Republican Gov. Mark Gordon, signed that state’s abortion pill ban, the “Life is a Human Right Act.” Additionally, he said he would allow another more sweeping measure banning abortion to become law without his signature. That law, which took effect on 3/19/23, bans abortion under almost all circumstances, making it a felony to provide an abortion punishable by up to five years in prison. Doctors would have their licenses revoked. Narrow exceptions are for rape, incest and dire risks to the pregnant patient’s life or health. “I have acted without bias and after extensive prayer, to allow these bills to become law,” Gov. Gordon stated, according to a NY Times report. The new law stipulates that abortion is NOT health care because under the Wyoming Constitution, residents have the right to make their own health care decisions.

TExAS: The Alliance Defending Freedom, organized just months after the Supreme Court’s Dobbs decision, intentionally filed a 113 page suit in U.S. District Court for the North District of Texas in Amarillo where there is a 100% chance of drawing Judge Matthew Kacsmaryk, a far-right Trump appointee. This lawsuit, Alliance for Hippocratic Medicine v. FDA, was filed in November 2022. It argues that the FDA “exceeded its regulatory authority” by fast-tracking mifepristone’s approval in 2000. Anti-abortion advocates are asking the court to disregard decades of scientific and clinical evidence showing that the drug is safe and effective, urging mifepristone be withdrawn from the market. The FDA does not comment on ongoing litigation.

A coalition of a dozen Democratic state attorneys general filed a brief supporting the FDA’s approval of mifepristone. Advocates for reproductive choice fear if this lawsuit is successful, it could be the final nail in the coffin for abortion rights in much of the United States. Without access to abortion pills, the only legal options left would be in-person procedural abortions at the few clinics remaining in states that allow it. The Guttmacher Institute found a substantial increase in medication abortion from 2017 when 39% of pregnancy terminations utilized pills up to 2022 when 54% were medication abortions. People with wanted and unwanted pregnancies will be impacted since up to 20% of known pregnancies in the U.S. end in miscarriage. Care for a miscarriage is the same as for an abortion. In 19 states mostly in the south and Midwest, tele-medicine visits for medication abortion are banned. In a June letter to the FDA the American Medical Association and the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists wrote mifepristone is a “safe, effective and important component of treatment and management for early pregnancy loss…and abortion.” When used together, mifepristone and misoprostol are more than 95% effective and safer than Tylenol. The HuffPost reported that Kimberly Inez McGuire, executive director of U.R.G.E. (United for Reproductive & Gender Equality), expressed serious concern about a legal precedent being set. A ruling against the FDA’s drug approval authority would create a precedent should Judge Kacsmaryk find in favor of the Alliance Defending Freedom. Such a ruling apart from science embroils the agency in politics, McGuire maintained. Allowing abortion pill opponents to undercut the FDA’s judgment with “cursory and baseless allegations of harm” could spark challenges to other approved drugs and fuel public distrust of the process, Justice Department lawyers argued in a filing in the case.

Judge Kacsmaryk could restrict access to abortion medication also by citing the Comstock Act, originally passed in the 1800’s to outlaw anything then deemed obscene (like contraception, abortion). The Comstock Act has never been repealed. It was never enforced, according to the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU). An ACLU lawsuit filed in February opposes reinstating archaic prohibitions of the Comstock Act. The ACLU expects an immediate appeal of any ruling halting access to abortion pills. The dispute could ultimately end up at the U.S. Supreme Court.

Since the Dobbs decision ended the national right to an abortion, more than 500 bills in states across the country have been proposed that are related to abortion.
Five Women Sue Texas Over the State’s Abortion Ban: Denied abortions despite grave risks to their lives or their fetuses, five women took legal action against the bans that have shut down access to abortion. Their 91-page complaint, backed by the Center for Reproductive Rights, claims their harrowing experiences cause “catastrophic harms” to women. Texas, like most states with bans, allows exceptions when a physician determines there is risk of “substantial” harm to the mother or if the fetus has a fatal diagnosis. Yet the potential for prison sentences of up to 99 years, $100,000 fines and the loss of medical licenses has scared doctors into not providing abortions even in cases where the law would seem to allow them. The suit asks the court to affirm that physicians can make exceptions, and to clarify under what conditions. Two of the women bringing this suit discovered that their fetuses had no chance of survival — two had no skulls, and two others were threatening the lives of their twins. Though they feared risk of hemorrhage or life-threatening infection from carrying these fetuses, the women were told they could not have abortions. The women found themselves forced to cross state borders to seek medical treatment, worrying that family and neighbors might report them to state authorities. In some cases the women became so ill that they were hospitalized. One plaintiff, Amanda Zurawski, was told she was not yet sick enough to receive an abortion, then twice became septic and was left with so much scar tissue that one of her fallopian tubes is permanently closed. Even before the Supreme Court overturned Roe, Texas passed a law allowing civilians to sue anyone who provided or aided and abetted an abortion with rewards of at least $10,000 for successful suits, the NY Times reported 3/7/23.

Texas Man Uses New Law to Sue 3 for Securing Abortion Pills: In a first test of a Texas law that bans nearly all abortions, Marcus Silva is suing three women he says helped his ex-wife obtain abortion pills, Barrons reported 3/11/23. Relying on a 2022 law, Silva’s civil lawsuit permits wrongful death complaints to be brought against anyone helping someone obtain an abortion. Silva alleges that while they were still married, his wife became pregnant in July 2022, but kept it secret. The Silvas divorced recently. Silva plans to sue the manufacturer of the mifepristone pill that was allegedly used. Anyone who manufactures or distributes abortion pills, including major drugstores like CVS and Walgreens, “will be sued into oblivion,” one of Silva’s lawyers said. Silva’s suit comes days after five Texas women sued the state, saying they had been denied abortions despite having dangerous or unviable pregnancies.

WASHINGTON: On 2/24/23 the attorneys general of a dozen Democratic-controlled states sued the FDA asking a judge to remove special restrictions the agency applies to mifepristone. Washington state Attorney General Bob Ferguson filed suit seeking to lift additional layers of regulation above and beyond those for typical prescription drugs. Only a few dozen high-risk prescription drugs (such as fentanyl and other opioids) are subject to additional FDA regulation called REMS (Risk Evaluation and Mitigation Strategy). The Washington case asks the court to declare that the FDA’s approval of mifepristone is lawful and valid and enjoin the FDA “from taking any action to remove mifepristone from the market or reduce its availability.” The timing and content of the lawsuit were strategic, according to Ameet Sarpatwari, assistant professor of medicine at Harvard Medical School and an attorney. “It is a legally and politically savvy move to file this complaint now. If you have a federal judge in one jurisdiction saying the approval was lawful, and actually enjoining FDA from taking action to restrict access, that would stand in exact conflict with what many presume the Texas judge may do, which is actually rescind the approval of the drug. If two federal rulings were to conflict,” said Dr. Sarpatwari, an expert on FDA regulations, “that gives ground for the federal government to say, ‘Look, I’ve got two courts saying two fundamentally different things, and the best we can do right now is to do nothing.’” That could result in both cases landing before the Supreme Court and in preserved access to mifepristone until a high court decision.

Kristen Beneski, first assistant Washington State Attorney General, said “It’s not right for one judge in Texas to decide for all Americans whether they can access the gold standard of care for early pregnancy termination.” Led by the attorneys general of Washington and Oregon, their counterparts in Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Michigan, Nevada, New Mexico, Rhode Island and Vermont joined the filing. “We are not arguing that the FDA should not have approval authority over mifepristone, only that the REMS system is unnecessary for this drug and poses unnecessary risks to providers and patients in the current legal landscape,” Ms. Beneski said. “Those risks are real, and need to be addressed.” Drexel University law professor Dr. David S. Cohen called the new lawsuit a “great strategy” adding that “removing the needless restrictions the FDA has imposed on the drug—restrictions not backed by any science—is one of the highest priorities, according to a New York Times report.

ILLINOIS: Politico first reported that 20 Republican state attorneys general wrote Walgreens and several other pharmacies including CVS, Wal-Mart and Costco, pointing out laws that could be violated if the companies provided abortion pills through the mail. Walgreens stated that it will only sell abortion medication “in those jurisdictions where it is legal and operationally feasible.” Illinois Governor J.B. Pritzker, the highest level elected official in the state where Walgreens is headquartered, said “Walgreens must rethink this policy. To all the other pharmacy providers, we’ll stand with you so you can provide this lifesaving care.” Illinois Senator Tammy Duckworth called Walgreens’ decision “absolutely awful. This willful corporate choice will prevent so many women from choosing the health care they need and have a legal right to.” Hundreds of Twitter users in response to Walgreens’ announcement wrote, “Never step foot in a Walgreens again,” or “no longer be spending any money at Walgreens.”

WEST VIRGINIA & NORTH CAROLINA: GenBioPro, a generic mifepristone manufacturer and a physician, have challenged restrictions on the drug in both states.

CALIFORNIA: Governor Gavin Newsom cut ties with Walgreens over abortion pill access, according to a 3/6/23 L.A. Times report. In an attempt to counter G.O.P. efforts to limit reproductive rights, Gov. Newsom said California will cut ties with Walgreens over the company’s decision to stop selling abortion medication in 20 Republican-led states.

“California won’t be doing business with Walgreens—or any company that cowers to the extremists and puts women’s lives at risk.” Using the force of the California economy, Newsom is attempting to push back on the pressure G.O.P leaders are putting on retailers to cut off access to abortion medication in their states. Walgreens shares fell 1.8% after Newsom’s announcement. A group of U.S. Senators sent letters to seven pharmacies urging them to ensure customers have access to abortion medication. Senators Patty Murray (D/WA) and Debbie Stabenow (D/MI), led 16 other Democrats who wrote to Walgreens, Albertsons, Costco, Kroger, Wal-Mart, CVS and Rite Aid. Their letter asks for details about their plans and policies toward providing mifepristone. The Senators said that Walgreens has done a “disservice” in adding to confusion about abortion access and insisted on clarification about the company’s plans. On 3/4/23 The Hill reported that Albertsons, Costco, Kroger and Wal-Mart have not announced any plans.

MISSOURI: In the sanctuary of Christ Church Episcopal Cathedral in St. Louis, an interfaith clergy group announced a lawsuit challenging Missouri’s strict abortion ban. They argued this statute violates the state constitution prohibiting the establishment of religion and separation of church and state provision. Plaintiffs argue that some lawmakers openly invoked religious rhetoric and theology while promoting the bill. The law refers to “Almighty God” as the “author of life” and “the life of an individual human being begins at conception.” The lawsuit reads, “State officials have weaponized their religious beliefs to control the bodies and deny the autonomy of women.” Plaintiffs include clergy from United Methodist, Reform Judaism, United Church of Christ, Unitarian Universalist and an Episcopal Bishop. Plaintiffs are backed by Americans United for Separation of Church & State and the National Women’s Law Center. Suits based on Religious Freedom have also been filed in Florida, Kentucky and Indiana.

DEMOCRATIC GOVERNOR’S ALLIANCE ON ABORTION RIGHTS:

Democratic Governors in 20 states are launching a network intended to strengthen abortion access in the wake of the U.S. Supreme Court decision nixing a woman’s constitutional right to end pregnancy and instead shift regulatory powers over the procedure to state governments. California Gov. Gavin Newsom described the Reproductive Freedom Alliance as a way governors and their staffs will share their best practices and affirm abortion rights for the approximately 170 million Americans who live in the consortium’s footprint and even ensure services for the remainder of U.S. residents who live in states with more restrictive laws. According to a 2/21/23 AP report, New Mexico Governor Michelle Lujan Grisham said “We can coalesce as governors to act. This is leveraging our strengths...to have more of a national voice.” That includes sharing statutory language and Executive Orders protecting abortion access, ways to protect abortion providers from prosecution, strategies to maximize federal financing for reproductive health care such as birth control and support manufacturers of abortion medication and contraceptives that face potential new restrictions from conservatives. Lujan Grisham noted the launch comes as a federal court in Texas considers a challenge to the nationwide availability of medication abortion. Newsom called the effort he and his staff spent months organizing “a moral obligation” and “fire wall” to protect “fundamental rights.” The group includes every presidential battleground state led by a Democrat: Gov. Gretchen Whitmer of Michigan, Gov. Roy Cooper of North Carolina, Gov. Josh Shapiro of Pennsylvania and Gov. Tony Evers of Wisconsin. The 20 states in the Reproductive Freedom Alliance are:
