Advocacy

OMA advocacy alert and call to action

The Cultural Advocacy Coalition (CAC) is asking Governor Brown to recategorize museums to operate under the guidelines of retail businesses as opposed to our current restrictions as indoor entertainment venues during the remainder of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Under the guidelines for retail businesses, occupancy is determined by percentage of square footage rather than head count. We believe this change to be critical to the success and survival of Oregon museums.

Read the letter here.

To support this effort, please sign on to the CAC’s letter by emailing sue@oregonculture.org by noon on Monday April 12. In your email, state “On behalf of [organization name], I support the reclassification of Oregon museums to operate under retail sector guidelines for COVID-19.”
OMA-WaMA Joint Virtual Conference 2021: A Changed Landscape, A Changed Museum

September 13-15, 2021

Oregon Museums Association (OMA) and Washington Museum Association (WaMA) are excited to join forces to host our 2021 Conference: A Changed Landscape, A Changed Museum. The two-day virtual conference will be accompanied by in-person events occurring across both states (as public health regulations allow).

This past year changed us all, as we grappled with COVID-19, systemic racism, political strife, and climate change. We progress into 2021 with the news of vaccinations and re-openings, and with a new sense of hope. As we emerge into a changed landscape, we can use our re-opening momentum to become changed museums.

Join WaMA and OMA to re-emerge, re-invent, and re-imagine a stronger museum future.

Details coming soon!

- Call for proposals opens in late April
- Registration opens in July
  - OMA and WaMA members: $35 early bird, $45 regular
  - Non-members: $40 early bird, $50 regular
Thinking about the unthinkable--April webinar on liquidating assets and closing museums

Will the last person leaving please turn off the lights? How to properly disband a museum and liquidate its assets

Wednesday, April 28, 2021, 12-1:30 pm

The COVID-19 pandemic has forced some museums to permanently close, presenting their staffs and boards with unexpected legal and ethical questions about what would become of their assets. This program will use examples from shuttered museums to address how to go about dissolving a collection and liquidating its assets. Resources from museum workers and state agencies will help institutions take steps now to prepare for an unexpected closure in the future.

Presenters:

- Joseph Govednik, Museum Director, Cowlitz County Historical Museum
- R. Lewis Ferguson, former Director, World of Speed Museum (now closed)
- Jenn Clemo, Director of Nonprofit Leadership & Resources, Nonprofit Association of Oregon

Registration is open!

- OMA members: $15
- Non-members: $25

OMA May meet up: Tours at the ZMA (Zoom Museum of Art)

Monday, May 17, 2021, 12-1 pm

Are you feeling museum deprived? Join your colleagues in an art "tour" of each other's homes! Participants can informally select one or two works of art in their home to show to the group, and share its name, its maker, and why it is meaningful to you. Viewers are not obligated to share, but anyone who wants to share is welcome to!

Hosted by board member Zachary Stocks.

This event is free, but you must register to receive log-in details.

Honoring York, the only Black member of the Lewis and Clark Corps of Discovery

In Portland, Oregon, a new cast bronze monument installed anonymously in Mt. Tabor Park memorializes York. An inscription below the bust identifies York as “the first African American to cross North America and reach the Pacific coast.” It adds “though York was an enslaved laborer. he performed all the coast.” It adds “though York was an enslaved laborer, he performed all the duties of a full member of the expedition. He was a skilled hunter, negotiated trade with Native American communities and tended to the sick. Upon his return east with the Corps of Discovery, York asked for his freedom. Clark refused his request.”

AASLH report on museum transitions and closures

"One of the many lessons that history teaches us is that change is constant, and that beginnings and endings are frequent. This includes changes, and even endings, for museums, historic houses, and historical societies, too. You may be despairing about the financial struggle that your museum is facing, or have done some careful thinking about your organization’s mission and your community’s needs, and realized that you need to consider a transition or a closure. This new resource introduces the process of closing (or merging, etc.) a history museum."

"What's Next? A Guide to Museum Transitions and Closures," was researched and written by members of the American Association for State and Local History (AASLH) Standards and Ethics Committee, Field Services Alliance, and Small Museums Affinity Community. The report discusses the practical, legal, and ethical issues that come with a major museum change such as a closure, merger, or transition.

Exhibit on Indian American boarding schools

Beginning in the 1870s, the US government attempted to educate and assimilate American Indians into “civilized” society by placing children—of all ages, from thousands of homes and hundreds of diverse tribes—in distant, residential boarding schools. Native Americans responded to the often tragic boarding school experience in complex and nuanced ways. Stories of student resistance, accommodation, creative resolve, devoted participation, escape, and faith in one’s self and heritage speak individually across eras.

Away from Home: Native American Boarding School Stories, explores off-reservation boarding schools in its kaleidoscope of voices. It's on display at the Clatsop County Heritage Museum from April 6 - May 25, and this is the last stop for this traveling exhibit in the Pacific Northwest until 2024.

Building a photo collection of World War II military deaths

The first free and publicly available database of American military losses in World War II is collecting a photo for each of the 407,000 Americans who died during the war. The WW II Photo Project plans to verify existing state lists are accurate, locate additional names, and catalog all photos. If your organization maintains a list for your community or has photos, consider sending them to the site.

Trainings/Events

Museum Learning Hub opens

Western Museums Association (WMA) and five regional partners recently launched the Digital Empowerment Project and Museum Learning Hub website. They are creating ten free, live training modules that will be presented April 2021-January 2022 at the Museum Learning Hub.

Each module consists of an introductory session presented by museum professionals, followed by three weekly technical training workshops (tailored to varying levels of experience from beginner to advanced) taught by subject-matter experts. WMA is thrilled to be able to help small museum professionals boost their digital media skills and so much more through the Museum Learning Hub!

The first module on Digital Accessibility and Inclusion started April 8, and it's not too late to join.
AASLH's Basics of Archives course

May 24-June 27, 2021

The Basics of Archives 5-week, self-paced online course is designed to give organizations and individuals who are responsible for the care of historical records an introduction to the core aspects of managing and protecting historical records collections, using appropriate principles and best practices.
